Chakvetadze Steals The Show in Stanford

Improves to 6-0 lifetime in Tour singles finals with straight set championship win over Mirza

STANFORD, CA, USA - Six finals, six titles - Anna Chakvetadze maintained her perfect record in Sony Ericsson WTA Tour finals with a straight set championship win over Sania Mirza at the Bank of the West Classic, the fourth title of the year for her and the sixth of her career.

After some closely-contested beginnings to both sets, the top-seeded Chakvetadze broke away from her unseeded opponent, winning three of the last four games of the first set and every one of the last four games of the second set for a routine 63 62 victory, her third victory in the pairing's three career encounters. It was a much more comprehensive affair than a three set battle in the semifinals of Cincinnati just over a week ago, which Chakvetadze also won.

"I had some trouble with my serve in the first set but my win yesterday helped me because I started to concentrate on every point," said Chakvetadze, who won a three-setter against an in-form Daniela Hantuchova in Saturday's semifinals. "I was trying to move Sania around the court and it worked well for me today."

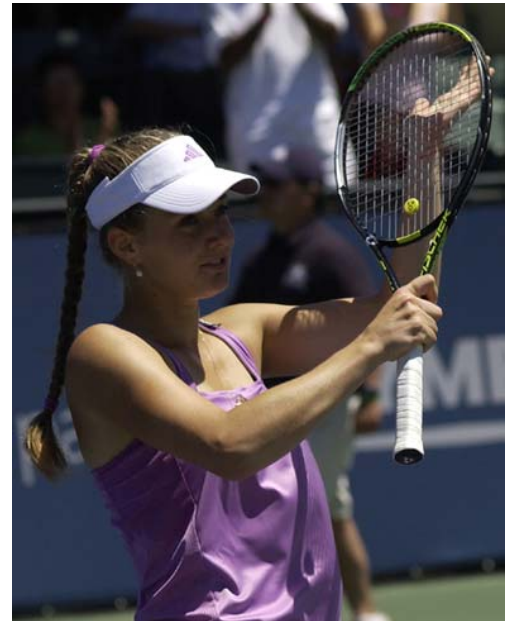

"After I lost the first set she just dominated - hats off to her, she played her some great tennis this week," Mirza said. "She comes up with her best in the final and I'm really impressed. I wasn't hitting the ball as well today as I have this week, but we were both really tired from a lot of tennis the last couple of weeks. But that's the way it is, she just handled it better today."

Chakvetadze brings home her sixth career Tour singles title, having won titles at Guangzhou and Moscow last fall and at Hobart, 's-Hertogenbosch, Cincinnati and now Stanford this year. She is just the third player this year to win four or more titles, after world No.1 Justine Henin (five) and No.3 Jelena Jankovic (four).

"I have to play only in the United States," joked Chakvetadze, now 9-0 on the summer hardcourts, having gone 5-0 in Cincinnati last week and 4-0 here. "It's great here. I like the food, I like the people; I just enjoy being here."

After the match, Chakvetadze had nothing but praise for her championship challenger.

"It's great for Sania; she's a great girl and has so much support," Chakvetadze said. "She had a great week this week. In Cincinnati we had so many errors and it wasn't good to watch. But we were both playing better here."

Mirza enjoyed what was arguably her career-best week, beating two of the Top 20 for the first time in the same event (Tatiana Golovin and Patty Schnyder), and making her first final at the Tier II level or above. Having missed over two months in the spring after knee surgery at the beginning of March, the young Indian seems to be back in her top match form.

"Mentally and physically I'm tired, but I've had a great week," Mirza added. "It has shown me that I can play good tennis consistently for the whole week - not that I played an ugly match today, but physically I don't think I took it as well as she did. But this gives me lots more confidence that I can go deep into a lot more tournaments. Playing Morigami in the first round is not the easiest draw you can ask for, either - she has been playing well all year."

Both finalists made significant movements up the ranks with their performances, Chakvetadze rising to a new career-high No.6 in the world (from No.7), and Mirza shifting from

No.35 to No.31, which was her previous high. Both head to San Diego hoping to continue their solid summer hardcourt seasons.

For the first time in over four years, the two singles finalists also went to battle in the doubles final, but the roles were reversed this time as the No.3-seeded team of Sania Mirza and Shahar Peer beat unseeded Victoria Azarenka and Anna Chakvetadze in two sets, 64 76(5). Mirza now holds three Tour doubles titles this year (six overall), while Peer won her first of the year (her third overall).

"However many times you play Anna you never get used to her shots, and you can see she made some great angles," Mirza said. "But we played well, volleyed well. It was a final; even though I was tired, Shahar was fresh and as a team we played really well."

"The main thing is we work really well together," Peer declared. "If one of us is down, the other brings them up. The main thing is that we have a good time playing together on the tennis court."

Other players making noise in the summer's first US Open Series event were eventual quarterfinalists Olga Govortsova and Lilia Osterloh. Belarusian teenager Govortsova beat a No.5-seeded Peer for her career-first Top 20 victory, while American wild card Osterloh downed No.2-seeded Wimbledon finalist Marion Bartoli for her second-best career win. Both women also reached the quarterfinals in Cincinnati last week, Govortsova falling to Mirza and Osterloh falling to Uzbekistani Akgul Amanmuradova.

Finally, Francesca!

Italian captures first title in ninth Sony Ericsson WTA Tour singles final

BAD GASTEIN, Austria - With one last volley winner and an audible cry of "Sii!", Francesca Schiavone finally earned her first career Sony Ericsson WTA Tour singles title in Bad Gastein, Austria on Sunday afternoon, taking down Yvonne Meusburger in front of her home crowd for the inaugural Gastein Ladies title. It was a long time coming for the Italian, who had been winless in eight finals.

Schiavone was the craftier player on Sunday, using angles and drop shots to perfection on the red clay and jumping out to a 61 31 lead against Meusburger. Meusburger's flat ground game started hitting the mark as Schiavone was seemingly tightening up, with the Austrian winning three straight games to move ahead 4-3 in the second set; but the top seed wasn't about to let her ninth chance slip, and she eventually closed it out in straight sets, 61 64.

"She started playing much better in the second set, and I said to myself, 'If she's going to play like this then I'll raise my level too, and if she beats me like that then that's okay,'" Schiavone said. "But I never thought about maybe losing the ninth final. You just have to focus point by point and not think about the past or future, just the present. When I hit that last shot, I had strong emotions."

"I was really happy to play the final," Meusburger said after the match. "I was a little bit nervous, but I played a really great match and had a lot of fun. I kept fighting and always believed I could win, but at the end she was really strong and she was fighting too."

The 2007 Gastein Ladies title puts an end to Schiavone's dubious Sony Ericsson WTA Tour singles finals record, which included three championship match losses in each of the last two seasons.

"The most important thing for me is to enjoy this; I don't care if it's a Tier I, Tier II, Tier III or Tier 10, it's my first title," the 27-year-old Italian said humorously afterwards. "I don't care about which tournament it is, just that for the first time I've finally won a title."

Schiavone had been struggling for form prior to her week in Austria, going 14-15 on the season coming in and winning back-to-back matches just twice in reaching the quarterfinals of Doha and the third round of Roland Garros. But the feisty Italian walks away from this event 19-15 and a Top 30 player once again. Early last year, Schiavone rose to No.11 in the world, equaling the best ever Tour Singles Ranking for an Italian woman (Silvia Farina Elia).

Meusburger was the darling of the tournament, upsetting three seeds, including Schiavone's projected final opponent, namely No.2 seed Emilie Loit, en route to her first Tour singles final. The run was her first time to reach even a quarterfinal on the Tour.

"She was playing very tough and had a wonderful week, but I am happy because I also had a very good week," said the Austrian, who was bidding to become the ninth Austrian in Tour history to claim a singles title. "I've learned a lot from this match. I just want to keep playing as many matches as I can and have fun."

In six of her first eight finals, Schiavone fell in straight sets. She pushed eventual champions to three at 2000 Tashkent (Tulyaganova) and 2006 Sydney (Henin).

Meusburger was also bidding to become the ninth Austrian in Tour history to capture a singles title on home soil, after Barbara Paulus, Barbara Schett and Judith Floimair-Wiesner also did it.

Czech pair Lucie Hradecka and Renata Voracova took home the doubles honors Sunday, with a 63 75 championship victory over the tournament's top seeds, Agnes Szavay and Vladimira Uhlova. The No.3-seeded Hradecka and Voracova were pushed to match tie-breaks in their first two rounds but cruised through their ultimate two rounds in straight sets. Szavay was coming off her career-first Tour singles title in Palermo, and had also made a singles quarterfinal run here, falling to eventual champ Schiavone.

The Gastein Ladies, held on the red clay courts of Stubnerkogel, was making its inaugural appearance as a Tour stop this year.

QUOTES OF THE WEEK

"The most important thing for me is to enjoy this; I don't care if it's a Tier I, Tier II, Tier III or Tier 10, it's my first title. I don't care about which tournament it is, just that for the first time I've won a title."

Francesca Schiavone after capturing her first Tour singles title on the red clay courts of Bad Gastein, Austria over the weekend.

"She uses the court well and is really intelligent; she hits a bit like Martina. This is a great opportunity for me. I have nothing to lose."

Daniela Hantuchova on Anna Chakvetadze, prior to their semifinal encounter in Stanford. Chakvetadze won prevail in three sets.

"I needed some time to adjust to her shots and her lefty spin. She was hitting to my backhand; when you have so many backhands in a row, you're getting a rhythm. Even down 5-2 it I wasn't playing horribly, I just wasn't used to her ball. Once I got used to it I was fine. I'm happy how I converted my weakness into my strength."

Sania Mirza on how she overcame Patty Schnyder in the quarters of Stanford. The Indian would go on to reach her first Tier II final.

"I was a little bit nervous but I thought I could win, and now I'm in my first final and I'm really happy. I like to play here because we don't have many tournaments in Austria. The people are great."

Yvonne Meusburger after beating Karin Knapp to reach her very first Tour singles final on her home soil of Bad Gastein, Austria.

WIN OF THE WEEK

(WC) Lilia Osterloh (USA #106) d.

(2) Marion Bartoli (FRA #11) 57 64 63

Second Round, Bank of the West Classic (Stanford)

France's Marion Bartoli did not enjoy a successful follow-up event to Wimbledon, falling to an inspired Lilia Osterloh in the second round of Stanford. Despite being injured - she asked for the trainer during the first set and was diagnosed with a right quadriceps strain - Bartoli kept fighting, rallying from 5-2 down and a set point while trailing 5-4 to win the first set; but her heart was not enough to combat her ailments as Osterloh began moving an obviously-hindered Frenchwoman from side to side more and more en route to victory. It was Osterloh's seventh career Top 20 win, and her second-best after her lone career Top 10 victory, when she beat a No.5-ranked Mary Pierce at Tokyo [Pan Pacific] in 2000.

"It's a great feeling to beat someone who beat the No.1 and No.3 players in the world at Wimbledon," said Osterloh, who reached her first Sony Ericsson WTA Tour quarterfinal of the year the week before at Cincinnati. "It really helps my confidence a lot."

HONORABLE MENTION

Sania Mirza (IND #35) d. Akiko Morigami (JPN #44) 46 75 76(5) (Stanford First Round): Although on paper it wasn't an upset, Mirza had to fight second set deficits of 4-1 and 5-3 (and a losing head-to-head record) to take out recent Cincinnati finalist Morigami.

WEEKS AT NO.1

Henin continues No.1 reign

© Action Images / Reuters

Maria Sharapova needed to get to the final and Jelena Jankovic needed to win the title; none of that happened during the Wimbledon fortnight, and because of that Justine Henin secured her stay at No.1 on the Sony Ericsson WTA Tour Singles Rankings.

All of her closest rivals' No.1 scenarios crumbled with fourth round losses, Sharapova to Venus Williams and Jankovic to Marion Bartoli. The Russian was more likely to ascend to the top, having to win the title with Henin falling before the final or finishing runner-up with Henin falling before the quarterfinals, but it wasn't to be.

Henin first ascended to No.1 on October 20, 2003; she became the first player in Tour history to lose it a week later, but she returned to No.1 on November 10, 2003, holding it until September 12, 2004, after the US Open. That was 45 weeks in total. She re-ascended on November 13, 2006, holding it for 11 more weeks to bring her total to 56. She began her fourth stint at No.1 at Miami this year; this week coming up she notches her 76th week on top. She is No.7 on the all-time list, and just 22 weeks away from No.6.

This chart lists the 15 women to have held No.1 in order of longevity, all numbers dating from November 3, 1975 when computer rankings were introduced, through the week of July 30, 2007:

RANKING MOVERS

Chakvetadze continues Top 10 climb

Notable singles ranking movers for the week of July 30, 2007:

Anna Chakvetadze (RUS)

No.7 to No.6

New career-high; the 20-year-old Muscovite continues her assault up the world's Top 10 after winning her second consecutive event in Stanford; she is currently the third-highest-ranked Russian, after current world No.2 Sharapova and current world No.4 Kuznetsova

Daniela Hantuchova (SVK)

No.12 to No.10

Return to Top 10; after a semifinal finish at the Tier II in Stanford, the Slovak begins her third stint in the world Top 10, having spent 47 straight weeks there from October 14, 2002 and September 7, 2003 and one more between June 18 and 24 earlier this season; this will be her 49th non-consecutive week among the 10 best

Francesca Schiavone (ITA)

No.31 to No.27

Return to Top 30; the former world No.11 stops a downward slide by capturing her maiden Tour singles title at the inaugural Tier III in Bad Gastein; it was her first title in nine career Tour singles finals

Sania Mirza (IND)

No.35 to No.31

Return to career-high; the Indian is on the verge of a Top 30 debut after reaching her third career Tour singles final at Tier II Stanford

Kaia Kanepi (EST)

No.46 to No.40

Career Top 40 debut; the big-hitting Estonian enters a new ranking class after her fourth career Tour singles semifinal at Bad Gastein

Karin Knapp (ITA)

No.56 to No.48

Career Top 50 debut; the young Italian cracks the world's 50 best after her third Tour singles semifinal of the season at Bad Gastein

Yvonne Meusburger (AUT)

No.82 to No.62

New career-high; having never passed the round of 16, stormed into maiden Tour singles final at Bad Gastein, falling to Schiavone

Olga Govortsova (BLR)

No.100 to No.70

New career-high; having just made Top 100 debut the week prior, surges to No.70 after second quarterfinal run in a row at Stanford

Lilia Osterloh (USA)

No.106 to No.80

Return to Top 100; notched seventh career Top 20 win over Bartoli en route to second straight quarterfinal showing at Tier II Stanford

Andrea Petkovic (GER)

No.102 to No.100

Career Top 100 debut; recent winner of sixth career ITF Circuit singles title at $50 ITF/Contrexeville-FRA cracks world's Top 100

HAPPY BIRTHDAY TO YOU!

Best wishes to those celebrating birthdays this week:

Anabel Medina Garrigues (ESP)

July 31, 1982

Victoria Azarenka (BLR)

July 31, 1989

Elena Vesnina (RUS)

August 1, 1986

Medina Garrigues turns 25 years old this Tuesday. The Spaniard is coming off an impressive clay court season that saw her win her eighth career title at Strasbourg (beating Mauresmo in the final) and reach Tier I quarterfinals at Charleston and Rome. She went winless in the grass court season but looks to get her summer hardcourt season going in Stockholm this week.

Tour, ITF reach 2008 Olympic agreement

LONDON, Great Britain - The ITF and the Sony Ericsson WTA Tour have announced the successful completion of negotiations to award ranking points for women at the 2008 Olympic Tennis Event in Beijing. Ranking points were also awarded for Athens 2004.

The agreement means that the ITF, Tour and the International Olympic Committee have agreed to some entry criteria for women for the 2008 Olympic Tennis Event. Tour Rankings will be used as the basis for determining the top 56 direct acceptances in the 64-player singles draw for women, subject to limitations outlined below as well as existing eligibility requirements. Depending on the singles rankings of their women players, nations can be eligible for up to four entries into the singles and may be able to nominate a separate doubles team for direct acceptance if a doubles player is ranked in the top ten. By virtue of this agreement, the maximum number of players on-site per country is raised from four to six. Six of the remaining eight places will be selected by the ITF's Olympic Committee taking into consideration ranking and geographic distribution of nations, as well as two Tripartite Commission Invitations decided by the IOC, National Olympic Committees and the ITF.

ITF President Francesco Ricci Bitti said: "This is an important step forward for the 2008 Olympic Tennis Event and I want to thank Larry Scott and the Board of the Sony Ericsson WTA Tour for their support and cooperation in finalising this agreement. This decision means that more of the top women players will be eligible to compete in Beijing and that is good news for everyone."

Larry Scott, CEO of the Sony Ericsson WTA Tour, said: "The Olympic Games represents the essence of sport in so many ways, and we are thrilled to again award Sony Ericsson WTA Tour ranking points for the women's Tennis Event at the 2008 Olympic Games in Beijing. The agreement announced today is intended to ensure that all direct acceptance players are selected based on merit, which is a principle of the utmost importance and one that is consistent with the spirit of the Olympic Games. Today's announcement is also a demonstration of the Tour's strong support for the Olympic Tennis Event, as ranking points help add both importance and reward for player performance at the Olympics."

Ricci Bitti added: "The ITF is still in negotiations with the ATP regarding ranking points for the men players for Beijing. The ATP awarded ranking points for the Olympic Tennis Event in 2000 and 2004 and we are hopeful that they will do the same for 2008."

The Olympic Tennis Event will be played from Sunday, August 10, through Sunday, August 17, 2008 at the new Olympic Tennis Centre in Beijing, China. The competition will include men's and women's singles (64 draws) and men's and women's doubles (32 draws). Tennis was a part of the first modern Olympic Games in 1896. The first woman to win an Olympic medal in any sport was tennis player Charlotte Cooper (GBR) at the 1900 Olympic Games in Paris. After the 1924 Paris Games, tennis withdrew from the Olympics but returned as a demonstration event in 1984 Los Angeles and returned as a full medal sport in 1988 Seoul.

Watch unstoppable Vaidisova

Earlier this year, Sony Ericsson WTA Tour star Nicole Vaidisova was unveiled as the face of The Citizen Watch Company of America's 'Unstoppable' media campaign, and now the Czech starlet will be fronting the brand's new TV commercial. The 18-year-old has already won six Tour titles during her fledgling career and was one of the youngest in history to crack the Top 10, accomplishments Citizen believe embody the very spirit of their product.

Since signing for the Citizen Eco-Drive 'Unstoppable' campaign Vaidisova has featured in print advertisements alongside other sports personalities such as New York Giant's quarterback Eli Manning, Calgary Flames' Dion Phaneuf and cricket superstar Kevin Pietersen. These campaigns ran in publications such as People to Marie Claire in the United States and Canada, but the TV advertising campaign is likely to reach a more global audience.

Laurence Grunstein, president of COA, explained the company's decision to work with the Czech phenomenon Vaidisova: "Citizen has been a proud sponsor and Corporate Champion of the US Open Tennis Championships for 15 years and our new relationship with Nicole Vaidisova is a logical extension of the Citizen commitment to women's tennis. In addition to strength and precision, she exhibits power, poise and grace, both on and off the court. She exemplifies the unstoppable spirit of our brand."

Vaidisova first came to prominence when, as a qualifier, she stormed through the draw in Vancouver, Canada to capture her maiden Tour singles title at just 15 years of age. This spectacular showing was followed up by an even more impressive feat, when she became one of only three players in Sony Ericsson Tour history to win two events in her rookie year on the professional circuit.

Citizen Eco-Drive watches prove that style and sustainability can coexist with ecologically friendly timekeepers. They utilize the power from natural or artificial light sources then convert it to stored energy. Enough is stored to power the watch for at least six months, even in the dark. For more information on the brand, please visit Citizen's official website at www.citizenwatch.com.

Vaidisova gets caught reading

Ever since she burst onto the scene as a fresh faced 15-year-old, Czech starlet Nicole Vaidisova has gained a reputation as not only one of the Sony Ericsson WTA Tour's brightest young stars, but also as one of its most avid book lovers. On Wednesday, July 25 The Association of American Publishers unveiled Vaidisova as the latest sports star to lend their support to 'Get Caught Reading', the nationwide public service reading campaign which promotes the joys of books and reading to children everywhere of all ages.

As a regular book report contributor to 'Smash Tennis' Magazine, Vaidisova has gained reputé as one of the most well read players on Tour and the President and CEO of the Association of American Publishers, Patricia Scott Schroeder was understandably delighted about her desire to get involved in the initiative. "With millions of fans by her side inspired by her tennis prowess and now influenced by her love of books, we're honored to have Nicole join our cast of public figures by contributing her time and sharing her commitment to books and reading. We're expecting tennis fans across the nation will soon be caught reading, on and off court!"

Get Caught Reading is a nationwide public service campaign launched by the Association of American Publishers in 1999 with the aim of promoting the joy of reading. The cornerstone of the campaign has centered around enlisting public figures to "get caught reading" their favorite titles, with posters available at no charge to booksellers, librarians and educators across the country. Through celebrity involvement, Get Caught Reading leads by example. Now in its eighth year, the campaign continues to grow and has caught on worldwide. Celebrities who have appeared in the campaign include boxing legend George Foreman, Mary Kate and Ashley Olson, Hollywood stars Whoopi Goldberg and Robin Williams as well as Johnny Damon of the New York Yankees.

To view the posters of the many celebrities getting caught reading their favorite books are available at no charge to complement the reading campaigns in every community across America by visiting the web site at www.getcaughtreading.org.

$70K raised to aid in Klemenschits cancer fight

BAD GASTEIN, Austria - The Sony Ericsson WTA Tour announced Friday, July 27 that through the combined efforts of the players, the Tour and an online charity auction, approximately US$70,000 has been raised to benefit Sandra and Daniela Klemenschits, Austrian twin sisters who made a name for themselves in Sony Ericsson WTA Tour and ITF Women's Circuit doubles competition.

In January of this year, the twins were diagnosed with a rare form of abdominal cancer that requires extensive medical care. To help raise money for their costly medical expenses, the Tour hosted an online auction at www.sonyericssonwtatour.com, featuring autographed items by Tour and ATP players such as Justine Henin, Amélie Mauresmo, Steffi Graf, Martina Hingis, Ana Ivanovic, Maria Sharapova, Nicole Vaidisova, Samantha Stosur, Rafael Nadal and Roger Federer. Tennis Warehouse also donated three racquets to be used in the auction. The Tour has matched 100% of the online auction takings of US$10,000 with another US$10,000, all directed towards the Klemenschits fund. Tour players have contributed approximately US$50,000 out of their tournament prize money and through their own personal cash donations.

"It is great to witness players from both the Sony Ericsson WTA Tour and ATP rallying to support the Klemenschits twins," said Larry Scott, CEO of the Tour. "We wish the sisters the absolute best and hope to see them back on the Tour very soon."

Former Top 10 player Barbara Schett of Austria was instrumental in coordinating the player donations, spearheading an initiative that will significantly assist the entire Klemenschits family.

"We're very grateful to the Tour and the players for their donations, and to the fans who bid in the auction," said Kurt Waltl, a health care provider for the Austrian Fed Cup Team and close friend of the Klemenschits family. "We're touched by the support everyone has shown to the twins. Daniela is undergoing special treatment right now at a private clinic in Munich, and the generosity shown is so important in her fight, as well as Sandra's."

The concerted effort to help the Klemenschits twins brings the total to US$70,000, all of which will assist the Klemenschits family with their ongoing medical costs. Further fundraising efforts took place last week at the Tour stop of Gastein Ladies in Bad Gastein.

The Klemenschits sisters were runners-up at the inaugural Istanbul Cup in Istanbul, Turkey in 2005, and reached the semifinals in Stockholm, Sweden and Budapest, Hungary later that year. They were an impressive force on the ITF Women's Circuit as well, winning 20 titles together. The two 24-year-olds, born on November 13, 1982, were also part of the Austrian Fed Cup Team in 2005, playing ties against the likes of France and Switzerland.

TOURNAMENT PREVIEWS

Sharapova eyes title defense in San Diego

SAN DIEGO, CA, USA - Four of the world's Top 10 will head to San Diego this week to battle it out for the Acura Classic, this summer's first Tier I hardcourt title. Reigning champ Maria Sharapova will top the list of seeds at the $1,340,000 event, but with such a stellar line-up the competition will be fierce in southern California.

World No.2 Sharapova comes into the event still searching for her first title of the season, but with her spectacular run to last year's championship at the La Costa Resort and Spa still fresh in the memory she will not be short of confidence. Her triumph 12 months ago was the catalyst for a memorable summer, in which the Russian compiled a 15-1 win-loss record on American hardcourts, culminating in her second Grand Slam triumph at the US Open. Sharapova has enjoyed a solid year so far and despite having to contend with a nagging right shoulder injury for much of the past six months, she has compiled an impressive 26-8 record, with runner-up finishes at the Australian Open and in Birmingham.

Serbian superstar Jelena Jankovic is the No.2 seed and after the spectacular year she has had, few would bet against her adding the Acura Classic to her burgeoning list of titles. The 22-year-old from Belgrade has already captured four pieces of silverware this season, including the Tier I titles in Charleston and Rome, and will be eager to improve on her third round showing in California 12 months ago. This defeat was followed up by a runner-up finish in Los Angeles, before reaching her maiden major semifinal at Flushing Meadows and with her all-court game Jankovic is confident of getting her American adventure off to a flying start this week.

Anna Chakvetadze, the event's No.3 seed, has been another of 2007's standout performers, winning four tournaments – Hobart, 's-Hertogenbosch and the last two weeks in Cincinnati and Stanford – and cementing her place in the world's Top 10. The 20-year-old Muscovite has had quarterfinal showings in each of her previous visits to San Diego and will certainly be among the favorites.

In addition to the Top 16 seeds, which also include the likes of Nadia Petrova, Marion Bartoli, Daniela Hantuchova, Martina Hingis and Dinara Safina, another player who is likely to have a significant say on where the title will end up is three-time Acura Classic champion and recent Wimbledon winner, Venus Williams. The 27-year-old was born in California and the tournament holds a special place in her heart, having taken home the title three years running between 2000 and 2002. She opens with Anastasia Rodionova.

Medina Garrigues headlines in Stockholm

STOCKHOLM, Sweden - Spain's Anabel Medina Garrigues and Poland's Agnieszka Radwanska will top the bill at this week's Nordea Nordic Light Open, as four of the world's Top 50 visit Scandinavia for Sony Ericsson WTA Tour's lone European summer hardcourt event. With less than a month until the start of the year's final Grand Slam, all 32 players in the field for the Tier IV event will be looking to find their feet on the surface before crossing the Atlantic.

Medina Garrigues is making her third appearance at the tournament and she will be keen to improve on her previous showings – second-round exits in 2003 and 2005. She has experienced an inconsistent year on Tour, winning just four matches in the opening three months of the season before reviving her fortunes during the clay-court swing – which included her seventh career title run in Stasbourg. Medina Garrigues is currently No.30 in the world and in the opening round she will face experienced German campaigner Sandra Kloesel, in what will be the pair's first career meeting.

One of the Tour's brightest stars, Radwanska, will be making her debut in the Stockholm main draw this week and after a promising season – in which the 18-year-old has made quarterfinal runs in Istanbul and Palermo as well as rising to a career-best ranking of No.33 – the No.2 seed will be hoping for a good showing at the Stockholm Olympic stadium. 12 months ago the Krakow based youngster fell in the final round of qualifying in the Swedish capital and she will be looking to banish those memories when she steps on court 1 for her first-round match with Tatjana Malek on Monday.

A mere 36 ranking spots separate the top seed from the No.8 and consequently this week's tournament promises to be extremely competitive. Experienced Frenchwoman Emilie Loit will be making her second appearance at the Nordea Nordic Light Open and she will hope to recapture the form which took her all the way to the semifinals in 2005. The 28-year-old is the No.3 seed this week and after a year which has seen the talented left-hander capture the third title of her career – in Acapulco – and force her way back into the Top 40, she is sure to be among the favorites to lift the trophy come Sunday. Kaia Kanepi, the tournament's No.4 seed, did not have to travel far to compete this week, coming from just over the Baltic sea in Estonia and will hope to maintain the form which saw her reach the quarterfinal in Bad Gastein last week. The remaining seeds this week include Nathalie Dechy, Elena Vesnina and the ever-improving Italian Karin Knapp.
